Espresso Updates

Meeting Your “Long Lost Brother”

Have you ever heard the phrase, “It’s like I met my long, lost brother”? Usually when someone says that they mean they have met someone with whom they have much in common. Well, on February 28th that happened to me. With one exception. He really is my long lost brother. For the first time in my life I met my biological brother. It was interesting to see what we have in common. We both wore plaid, long black coats and well, we are both gifted with debonair good looks (it’s okay you can laugh). However, our lives are vastly different.

It was a good opportunity for me to learn about his background and to listen as he told about why he left Judeo-Christian values for paganism. I was able to share with him my background and I had an opportunity to share what Christ has done in my life. I shared the gospel with my biological brother in a very simple way. I just told him what Christ had done in my life. By giving my simple testimony I was able to live out I Peter 3:15 “[But] sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear:”

Would you pray that I would have more opportunities to interact with my biological brother and sister?

Overall, February was an exciting month for us. God has blessed us tremendously! We were very much expecting to have to dip into our emergency fund but God provided again. God also gave us a new partner in the ministry and our sending church increased our support level! As our support grows we get that much closer to planting a church in Portugal!

Privileged to Serve,

David & Michelle Wears
